Mrs. Karrman Tells a Sad Tale of Desertion.

NINETEEN YEARS

Their Child Was Dying -- Other Court News.

Trintes Karrman began divorce progo to gain a legal seperation from William Karrman, whom she married in 1874. She has two children living, aged 16 and 12 years. She claims that in 1502, while her youngest child was fatally III William left the house for several nights and remained away all night. Eine afterward learned he was occupying sooms on South Division street with a woman named Ludowyk as man and wife. The couple passed under the name of Johnson. Last December she learned that they were again living on Gold street, and on visiting the house her husband struck her in the face. On various occasions he has struck her so hard that it made her nose and mouth bleed. She represents that her husband has a contract of purchase of property worth about $10,000, but she thinks he has neglected to gain full title to the properly for the purpose of preventing her from gaining a hower interest. Mr and Mrs. Karrman have been in the grovery business on Plainfeld avenue and have a stock worth 6400. On May 9 Mrs. Karrman says he came home after a long absence and maked her to pay debts owed by him of $500. She was mable to do this and at the same time support her children. She asks the court to restrain Mr. Karrman from disposing of the real estate or the stock of generies and defrauding her of her just rights. A cestraining order was

Must Care For His Family.

William Joles, a street car man, was arrested and lodgest in pail last night for non support. Minnie Joles, his wife, complianed of him two months ago, and at that time he promised Judge Hag gurty to care for his family. Mrs. Joles says she has been living with his mother in Pierson, waiting to have him send ber money, but he has not sent one dollar to het. They have two children. Joles is a sober, industrious man, and the only fault he finds with Mrs. Joles is that she is not a good house keeper.

Mrs. Lucy Cressy, wife No. 2 of Alonzo Cressy, whose story was published ex-clusively in Tire Hegista yesterday morning, has filed a bill for divorce from her faithless spouse in the circuit court. She claims she was married to Creesy by the Rev. S. S. Hamilton May 3, 1833. Since the marriage she has learned that Cressy had another wife living in the city and now wishes the marriage set
